

We have an exciting opportunity for an experienced clinic director to join our team at GSPORTS Physical Therapy! We are a busy and growing physical therapy clinic in the financial district of San Francisco specializing in the rehabilitation of sports injuries and orthopedic surgeries, with modern equipment and electronic documentation.

The right candidate will be someone who has a passion to lead people, understands the business of physical therapy, and wants to deliver the best patient experience in the Bay Area. Candidate must have experience as a clinic director, have a minimum of three years experience in outpatient orthopedics, and be a physical therapist licensed in the state of California. A business degree is preferred but not required. Education in management and leadership is expected.

The clinic director is ultimately responsible for patient satisfaction, employee engagement, daily operations, and net income for the clinic. Some major responsibilities include managing a patient caseload, managing personnel, ensuring full schedules, processing time sheets, coordinating coverage for time off requests, hiring, marketing, compliance, mentoring, analyzing reports, developing clinic plans, and resolving issues quickly.

The position is full-time with competitive benefits, including paid time off, healthcare benefits, and a matching 401(k) plan, to name a few. If you qualify for this position and have the ambition to lead a large team, please submit your resume and cover letter, we look forward to hearing from you!
